The Water Situation

THE investigation of the condition of Salem's water supply by Dr. E. J. Schwartz, chief of the division of communicable diseases of the state board of health, indicates how closely the state department is watching conditions here. While the report of one case of intestinal trouble came unofficially to the attention of the chief, there was no delay in checking up on the analysis of the water.

It is reassuring to learn that this was only a sporadic case and that no alarming situation exists here. However, this is but another evidence of the situation which confronts Salem today, as it has for many months. Analysis of the water shows that it is fit for consumption only after it has been chlorinated, and so long as the city depends solely upon the use of chlorine to purify its water the danger of some trouble is imminent.

Sanitary engineers point to the fact that filtration is the only safe method of purifying the water. Under the proposed water project at Cold Run the water will be filtered at its source and, flowing directly into the city mains, will reach the consumer in excellent condition. Therein lies the hope of Salem's future water supply. It will remove the element of chance which endangers the present supply and will insure a plentiful supply for future years. The decision rests with the voters at the November election.

Sportsmanship

COMMUNITY SERVICE was organized in Salem a year ago to give the city the benefit of well-directed recreation and play. In its brief existence it has accomplished much, but in two particular endeavors it has developed a spirit that is worth-while in this community. Last winter gymnasium classes were conducted in the high school gymnasium and this summer barnyard golf, or the old game of horseshoe pitching, has been developed as a community sport. In both cases true sportsmanship has asserted itself, having been especially noticeable in the barnyard golf tournament last week.

Community Service develops nothing else it may be called a success. It has been directing many of the activities of the city and to future development of its citizens. Its recreational program, including playground activities, has been an inspiration to the younger life of the city. In less than a year Community Service has developed more in organized community activities than Salem has experienced for many years.

The Chautauqua

THIS is Chautauqua week in Salem, an event that is anticipated with pleasure by hundreds of residents of Salem and vicinity every summer. Corresponding in a large measure to the lyeum course of the winter months, the Chautauqua is not only inspiring in an educational way but profitable to those who enjoy wholesome entertainment. The Chautauqua is a community booster, for it brings entire families together under favorable conditions and provides a program of instruction and amusement that is a tonic for any community.

This year the Chautauqua is of unusual merit, for it is a benefit for Quaker City band, the pride of Salem in musical circles. Any profits that may accrue from the week's entertainment will be donated to the band. That is another incentive for a large attendance at all sessions.

Parrots Lose Estate

A trust fund of $500 which was provided in the will of the late George Hart, theatrical lawyer, of New York, to maintain his two parrots after his death was overruled by the Appellate division of the Supreme court.

The court instructed the executors to turn the two parrots over to the American Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, there to be "treated tenderly and in a manner worthy of the status and pretensions of that society."

The rest of the will was upheld, including a bequest of $12,000 to the Society for Ethical Culture for the teaching of sex hygiene to children.

That Body of Yours

HAVE YOU REALLY GOT AN ACHES

I know there is a tendency at the present time to speak of aches, pains, or other symptoms as being in the imagination only.

This is a good thing up to a certain point, but it can be carried just a little too far.

What I mean is this. You have met people who have an ache in one place one day, and a pain in another part of the body the next day.

Perhaps they want to tell you all about these pains. They often look well, eat well, and sleep well. They just have that peculiar twist to their make up that enjoys discussing symptoms.

I am not discussing this type.

But some member of your family begins to complain of an ache in the back, a pain in the chest, distress after eating, headache or some other definite symptom.

When a piece of machinery complains, you immediately stop the engine and try to find out the trouble, because you realize that further running may cause serious damage.

Now why not be fair to that body of yours?

Just as a squeak, knock, or rattle in your car spells trouble, so does any pain or ache in the body.

You go to the garage man to have him locate the trouble and then correct it.

Now why in the name of common sense should you permit a constant ache or pain in your body, or that of any member of the family. Why say, "Oh it will pass away some of these days, why worry about it?"

You wouldn't do that with your car. Why not go to your family physician and say "I've had a constant pain in my forehead, my chest, my abdomen, or my back. I'd like you to go over me."

Perhaps you have been losing weight, have been unable to sleep and so forth. Tell him all about it. He likely knows your make up better than any one else and should have the best chance of locating and correcting your trouble.

How to Draw Checks

A check is the simplest of all bank forms, being merely an order for the bank to pay a certain sum of money to a designated person out of the funds belonging to the drawer of the check; yet a check is one of the greatest safeguards against error, loss or the necessity of paying bills the second time. This bank welcomes deposits subject to check and affords every assurance of positive safety for money. We gladly explain how to draw checks.

COOLIDGE TO URGE CONGRESS TO LIFT HIGH TAX BURDEN

Adoption Of Lower Sur-Tax Will Lead To Lower Income Rates.

Washington, Aug. 20.—Lower taxes will be strongly recommended to the next congress by President Coolidge. It was learned today. The president will seek a better adjustment of the tax burden, to satisfy urgent demands from all classes that the present revenue law is operating unfairly, actually deprives government of larger revenues and that it should be radically revised.

Secretary of the Treasury Mellon, in his report to congress, which will be cited by the president in his message, will urge that congress make possible the creation of new revenue sources by lowering sur-taxes. Secretary Mellon will recommend a reduction to a 25 per cent sur-tax from the present level of 50 per cent.

Adoption of a lower sur-tax proposal the administration contends, will make it easily possible to lower the income tax rates on moderate incomes. Most of the discount now evidenced from high federal taxes is the result of the present high scale of rates on small incomes below the $5,000 class. Men with moderate incomes are hardest hit in present application of the revenue act, for they constitute the larger percentage of the country's taxpayers, though not the major share of the taxes collected.

Secretary Mellon will stress the need of action by congress to lift the tax yoke off of industry to permit the spread of capital into new channels, out of the hiding places into which wealth has gone since the prohibitive high sur-taxes was authorized.

The treasury's view today was that only by this method will it be possible to secure equalization of the tax burden. The administration will renew its fight against tax-free securities. The treasury today estimated that $15,000,000,000 of American wealth is now sunk into tax-free securities, from which the government obtains no revenue. This wealth, officials said, can partly be influenced into productive fields if the exemptions now in force are lifted. This must be done, they said, if a better readjustment of the tax problem is to be accomplished.

BANDITS HOLD UP 170 DINERS AT INN SHOOT POLICEMAN

Detroit, Aug. 20.—Seven bandits Sunday held up the Allendale Inn at Warren and Snyder sts., lined up about 170 persons at the inn and obtained money and jewelry valued at several thousand dollars.

Four persons, including one woman were shot and seriously injured. One of the injured persons was said to be George D. Wilson, vice president of the Wilson Body company.

The gunmen escaped in an automobile. A short time later an automobile containing seven men believed to be the same ones who held up the inn was seen in Monroe about 40 miles southwest of here. The night policeman in Monroe approached the automobile and one of the persons in the machine shot and killed him.

Two of the gunmen stayed outside the roadhouse while three entered by the front door and two from the back. As soon as the men were inside the door, they all began firing through the crowded dance hall. Women screamed and fainted.

The bandits lined the waiters up first. One man guarded the waiters, while two went from table to table through the crowds. Another bandit guarded the front door while the fifth guarded the rear.

FAITH WILL LEAD

going back to the kingdom of God," he added.

Respect For Law

Mr. Jones reviewed the great wave of prosperity and of happiness and boastfulness that followed the World war and then the post-war slump. He asked what caused that slump. Not lack of money, or brains or power or opportunity, he said. The chief thing that caused the slump was that we suddenly lost our faith in God, in the government, in one another and then in ourselves. And finally we lost hope, he said, and pulled our own country down.

"Today we have an organized minority that has only contempt for all courts and all laws. The time has come for men who believe in our country to call a halt to the disrespect for law and contempt for the judiciary. I am getting tired of hearing men howling about the laws. They are the very men who are making money by violating laws. They should get out of this country if they can't live under its law."

Faith in the boys and girls of today was expressed in no uncertain terms by the speaker. The boys of today are just as clean and manly as the average boy in our grandfather's time, he said, and he expressed his belief that there was never a period in our history when the girls were so well and so comely and so sensibly dressed as today.

"Go back to the faith of your childhood when your religious faith becomes shaken," he advised.

Akron — Akron automobile club members will act as big brothers to the 1,600 Akron boys on Tuesday, Aug. 28. The children will be given a 20 mile automobile ride and taken to beach park for a full program of amusements and refreshments.

Lieut. Hoover Griffis.

Here is Hoover Griffis of Hamilton, O., a first lieutenant in the United States army reserve corps, who was arrested in Eberbach, Germany, on a charge of heading the band which tried to kidnap Grover Cleveland Bergdoll, millionaire Philadelphia draft dodger. Puffed Wheat

Steam exploded—flaky, flavorful puffs

Quaker Puffed Wheat is whole wheat steam exploded—puffed to 8 times normal size. Over 125 million steam explosions are caused in every kernel.

The grains are airy, flaky, toasted, and the nut-like flavor makes them a confection.

The food cells are broken for easy digestion, so all the food elements are fitted to feed.

Minerals—vitamines—bran

Quaker Puffed Wheat in milk is the most delightful night dish any home can serve.

The wheat supplies 12 minerals which growing children need. It supplies the need of bran. And milk supplies three vitamins.

Those are foods you want your family to eat daily and in plenty. Then serve them in this tempting form. Let children revel in them.

The morning dainty

Quaker Puffed Rice is rice grains puffed to airy globules. It forms the finest breakfast dainty people ever get. Millions now enjoy it.

Both these foods are Professor Anderson's inventions. In taste and texture, and ease of digestion they hold the top place among grain foods.

Keep both kinds ever handy.

EIGHT LOSE LIVES WHEN RESORT IS SWEEPED BY FLAMES

Toronto, Ont., Aug. 20.—Eight persons lost their lives early Sunday when the Wawa hotel on the Lake of the Muskoka, Ontario, burned to the ground, according to an announcement by the Canada Railway News of Toronto, owners of the property. At late hour police had reported the burning of six charred bodies in the ruins.

About 25 persons are reported to have been injured.

The fire is believed to have started in an elevator shaft and to have been caused by friction. Within 10 minutes after the discovery of the flames, the building was in a blaze which could be seen 25 miles away.

Alarms sent through the building, which contained 153 rooms, sent about 100 guests and servants to the hotel grounds, clad only in their night clothes. Few stopped to save clothing or valuables.

It is believed that some deaths, those of servants, were due to the fact that they tried to escape by a rear stairway at the foot of which was a locked door. Blocked there, they are reported to have run back upstairs and were trapped by the flames. Then it is said they ran to windows and threw themselves out.

Hilferding Is Big Man Of German Cabinet.

Dr. Rudolph Hilferding, German's new minister of finance and reparations in the Stresemann cabinet, is looked upon as the man who will be a leading factor in stabilizing the mark and paying German reparations to the allies. Originally an Austrian and by faith a Jew, he became a naturalized German after the revolution. He is a Socialist and leader of the German Social Democratic party. His book, "Das Finanz Kapital," is a standard work on finances in Germany.

Scientists co-operating with the United States Engineering department have proved that fog may be dispelled by pouring a film of oil on water surfaces. This experiment was performed successfully on the Monongahela river.

THE famous fiddler was a high liver. He had studied the subject.

That's why slaves had to bring ice and snow to Nero's castle, where the "ice card" was always out.

Think what a jump from those days of basket haulage to the modern ice delivery of today! Think what a customer Nero would have been if he—like you—could have gotten prompt delivery of sparkling pure ice by the mere ringing of a 'phone.

AUTO CLUB WANTS UNITY ROAD PAVED

Claims Columbiana County
Is Slow To Act On Petersburg-Unity Rd.

Youngstown, Aug. 20.—The Youngstown Automobile club has started action to have the two mile strip of dirt road between Petersburg and Unity paved. Money for this improvement is in the hands of the Columbiana County commissioners and this road was supposed to have been improved several years ago.

When the Mahoning County commissioners had the road paved to the county line the Columbiana officials stated that they would see that this Petersburg-Unity strip was improved so as to make a continuous good highway. The Columbiana officials have since that time done nothing on this question and agitation has been started in their home county as well as in Mahoning county to force some action.

Efforts are also being made to have the one mile strip from the Cox highway to Pine Lake fixed up. Assistance has been promised the Youngstown Automobile club in their fight for these improvements by officials in the State Highway department and early action is expected.

Because of the increasing demand for Chilean scientist has estimated that that country's important nitrate deposits will be exhausted in 20 years.

HOW A RIP-ROARING RADICAL WAS TAMED

By JOHN OAKWOOD

The best story of the taming of a radical I have ever read is told by A. B. Farquhar in his book "The First Million the Hardest." It throws more light on the meaning of capitalism and the futility of socialism than a library full of books on sociology, economics and politics. Here it is as Farquhar tells it:

"The best antidote for acute economic insanity is ownership of property. My favorite example is Otto Steininger. He was one of my first employees and was a rip-roaring anarchist. He insisted that all wealth came from the workers and therefore should go back to the workers. He was particularly bitter against his landlord and hardly a week went by that he did not announce that he had definitely decided that he would like to shoot the landlord the next time he came around for the rent. Finally I asked him smilingly after one of these outbursts:

Buy, Don't Shoot

"Why don't you buy your own house instead of shooting your landlord? Then you would not have to pay any rent. If you do shoot him you may get into trouble."

"He did not think much of the idea apparently but in a day or two he asked me how he could buy the house. I answered: 'That house can be bought for $800. You are getting good wages. I will buy that house for you, take $4 a week out of your wages, and in less than four years you will have it paid for.'

"He went off again. The next time he came back it was with his wife. He said: 'We are going to buy that house but since we have no children you can take $10 instead of $4 a week out of my pay envelope.'

"I bought the house and then Otto's chief concern was to get it paid for, which he did in a little more than a year. There was another house next door to him. In a short while after he had paid for his first house, he sided up to me and said:

"I can buy that house next door for a thousand dollars. Now that we have no rent to pay we are going along good. What would you think about me buying that?"

"He bought that house and joined the hated landlord class. Some years later when it was reported that a band of strikers were advancing to shut all the factories, Otto rushed into my office at the head of an excited group of men from the shop yelling:

"Get us a lot of shotguns and we'll keep those fellows out of here! Those fools expect a man to work and save and then walk in here and take what he has got without paying for it!"

"And that," Farquhar concludes, "I think, is always the way to develop a conservative."

GROWING RECOGNITION OF ADVERTISING'S USE

Advertising first established its place as an economic factor as a sales aid, but as understanding and use of it have increased, its possibilities in other fields have developed until today we find it employed in many forms of service hitherto unthought of. Advertising has long been hampered in its use by precedent, tradition, conventions, and prejudices, which, under analysis and experience, find little to warrant their existence. Gradually the falsity of their claims is being proved.

We were told for many years that it was undignified for a bank or fiduciary institution to advertise, and this edict, born of some superstition of the past, was accepted without question until finally it was intelligently challenged and it was discovered under analysis that there was no sufficient reason for its support. The inevitable conclusion of logic is that, whatever is of genuine use to human beings, whether it be goods or services, can, with truth and dignity, be advertised and sold, and that it is just as proper to merchandise forms of service as various kinds of commodities.

In the logical development of this new understanding of the power of advertising during the last decade, we have seen many of our banking, fiduciary and investment institutions actively employing the sales value of advertising in the marketing of their services. In this intelligent use of publicity they are not only increasing their own immediate business returns, but they are also helping to spread a better understanding of financial service and economic fact and theory upon which solid business relations can be built. — Francis H. Sisson, Journal of the American Bankers Association.

Paint for this big barn less than $27.00

YOU will be surprised that two coats of paint for a big barn like this (64' x 36') costs less than $27, but you can do the job with 15 gallons of Certain-teed. It doesn't take farm buildings long to run down without painting, and you can't afford to neglect them when so few gallons of Certain-teed are needed. Bring in your measurements and let us figure the cost with you. We base our figures on Certain-teed prices. Each color sells for what it costs to make plus a fair profit. The price is right and when you start to spread Certain-teed paint you feel the quality.

We like to sell Certain-teed because our customers come back satisfied. They find that Certain-teed paint wears longer than ordinary paint.

The Buick Double-Service Sedan

Another 1924 Buick innovation—this six-cylinder double-service sedan—has been especially created for those who wish a combined practical business car and family sedan.

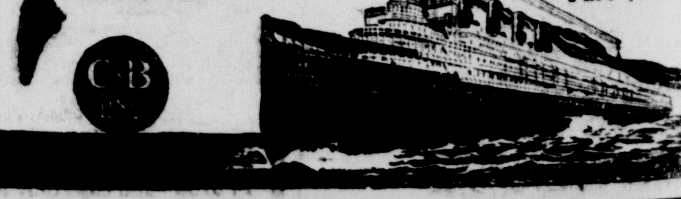

Its upholstery is comfortable, yet sufficiently serviceable to withstand severe daily usage. The power provided by its new Buick 70 H. P. valve-in-head motor is more than enough to carry it over the heaviest roads. Its staunch Buick four-wheel brakes assure ample safety whatever the driving conditions.

The admiration which you may feel for its service utility will be matched by the pride which your family will take in its comfort and suitability.

How to build up your Weight

To be under weight often proves low fighting-power in the body. It often means you are minus nerve, power, minus red-cells in your blood, minus health, minus vitality.

It is serious to be minus, but the moment you increase the number of your red-blood-cells, you begin to become plus.

That's why S.S.S., since 1926, has meant to thousands of underweight men and women, a plus in their strength. Your body fills to the point of power, your flesh becomes firmer, the age lines that come from thinness disappear. You look younger, firmer, happier, and you feel it, too, all over your body. More red-blood-cells! S.S.S. will build them.

S.S.S. is sold at all good drug stores in two sizes. The larger size is more economical.

OUR PRESIDENTS WORK TOO HARD

PEOPLE SHOULD INSIST THAT THEY MUST NOT OVERDO AND THUS BREAK DOWN.

VICTIMS OF IDEAS OF DUTY

Wilson Paid the Penalty with Illness and Harding With Death, and Probably Roosevelt's Life Was Shortened by Twenty Years.

By EDWARD B. CLARK

Washington.—When the news reached Washington that President Harding was dead the officials of the government asked a question which has been asked before: "Will the American people ever come to the point of insisting that their chief executives shall not work themselves to the breaking point?"

Leaving out all question of sorrow and sentiment, the United States government suffers when its chief executive is incapacitated, and it suffers also when the presidency through the death of a chief executive passes to another man. Everything is disrupted, temporarily at least, and the government ceases for a time properly to function.

It was known long ago that President Harding was overworking, just as it was known that Woodrow Wilson was overworking, and in an older day that Theodore Roosevelt was overworking.

Woodrow Wilson was stricken on a western trip when he was laying the cause of the League of Nations before his fellow countrymen. He had borne the stress of wartime troubles and the hardships of European negotiations which he undertook in person. On top of this he insisted, against the advice of some of his friends, on taking the platform in America in behalf of the cause which he had at heart.

Paid the Penalty of Overdoing.

President Harding had not only the troubles of an administration beset with difficulties consequent on the war, but he met with unusual domestic policy difficulties because of disagreements with some of the leading members of his party. The President's trip to the South in the spring did him good, but even that trip in a way was a working trip. In the heat of the summer he started on a long journey, one of the hardest journeys ever undertaken by a president of the United States. He paid the penalty of overdoing.

Every president of the United States seemingly feels that he ought to carry a message to the people two or three times at least during his administration. The idea of the presidents has been that they must give an account of their stewardship and that the people expect it of them. In view of what happened to Woodrow Wilson it is the feeling of Washington officials that the country really would have understood and have approved of a determination on Mr. Harding's part that he would rest rather than travel.

A few weeks before he left for the Northwest President Harding told the newspaper correspondents here that he believed he could get a much better understanding of what was necessary for the rehabilitation of Alaska if he should make a tour of personal study and observation. He felt that the Alaska trip was a duty and he, like other presidents, felt also that he ought to visit his constituents in the various states. What some of the government officials hope is that in the future presidents may come to believe that their duty to the administration as an administration is paramount to any duty which will tax strength and imperil life.

Roosevelt Seemed Tireless.

Theodore Roosevelt was a great traveler and a great worker. Seemingly he was tireless; there was no holding him. After he left the presidency he went at once to Africa and there suffered hardships. He was a glutton for more hardships, and the majority of people think that South America killed him. He lived to the age of sixty. With his constitution he probably ought to have lived to the age of eighty and probably would so have lived if he had not been an apostle of the gospel of constant work plus recreation which in his case was also work.

William H. Taft as president traveled more than any other chief executive in the history of the United States, but Mr. Taft was an easy traveler. He made all his work easy. Temperamentally he was different from any presidents of modern times. If he had not been the difficulties and disappointments that he met as president, plus his strenuous traveling, probably would have prevented him from being physically fit to occupy the high position that he holds today.

Probably no American excepting one who lives, so to speak, on the spot, realizes the work that falls to the lot of every president of the United States even in times of ease from worry over great governmental problems. Every hour of the president's working day is filled. People who have no business to see him insist on seeing him. He must write scores of letters on unimportant subjects. Some presidents have felt that they must apologize to the country because they take a few hours off for the purpose of recreation. The hardest-worked American citizen at all times is the American citizen who occupies the White House.

The Court Sees Its Public Duty

"How good is your eyesight?" snapped the opposing lawyer, unexpectedly.

"Never had the least trouble with it," boasted the plaintiff, Jackson.

His suit for damages had been as good as won. The evidence had shown that he was driving carefully—under 20 miles an hour—and the other car coming out of a side street, must have been going at an excessive rate of speed, or Jackson would have seen it sooner.

Judge and jury were favorably impressed. But then came the question: Are you willing to have your eyes examined here and let us read the results in court?

"Of course I am," he laughed.

The test revealed 40% of normal yet for nine years he had been driving a high powered car through the streets we all must use.

Make sure that the eyes behind the steering wheel are seeing all—not one-half or one-third of the road.

Have your eyes examined today.
